

NORTHERN CALIFORNIA MANGANI

The Northern California Chapter of the Burroughs Bibliophiles.

The newest chapter of the Burroughs Bibliophiles, the Northern California Mangani, had a “mini-con,” as Richard Lupoff termed it, in Berkeley on the 18th of November. Attending were author/editor Dick Lupoff, Pat Lupoff, the first woman to earn a Hugo Award, famed artist

Thomas Yeates, and David Lemmo, co-author of the upcoming book “Tarzan: His First 100 Years.” David and Henry Franke have been working with the program directors of the San Diego Comic Con International on a 2012 Tarzan program.

A panel is being put together, along with a slideshow to accompany the speakers on Tarzan's 100 year journey.

Dick Lupoff and Thomas Yeates are involved in a publishing project of Lupoff's upcoming novel "Rookie Blues," with a dust-jacket illustration by Yeates.

Yeates is also doing another Tarzan comic serial for Dark Horse Comics. Without giving anything away, this story will not only entertain but make one think---and broaden the perception of what people think is the meme we know of as Tarzan.

The Lupoffs, Yeates, and Lemmo brainstormed on the proposed Tarzan program for the July 2012 San Diego Comic Con International.

Each of these members of the NCM are working to help gather a panel of speakers, and any help from other members of our new and still forming group would be appreciated.

Lemmo's Museum of Modern Mythology and Pop Culture hosts a website for the NCM. Submissions are helpful and welcome: www.modernmythmuseum.com
